HIV/Aids in the spotlight

The Africa Centre for HIV/Aids Management is reaching thousands of individuals in the greater Stellenbosch area through the medium of interactive educational theatre. The first production, the mini-musical Lucky the Hero! (far right) directed by Prof Jimmie Earl Perry, is packed with facts, humour and emotional thrust. Prof Perry, Director of Educational Theatre, has been named by UNAIDS as its first National Goodwill Ambassador to South Africa.

Computer technology as hope in action

People who have lost the use of their limbs and torso, but have retained control of their neck muscles, can now learn to use computers thanks to a simple, affordable device. In the photo the engineering student who built the final prototype, Ms Jacki Gilmore, demonstrates how the computer interface replaces the mouse. One uses small head movements to guide the cursor along on the computer screen. To click, you blow into the microphone.
